

REGINA SAILING CLUB

Newsletter 2006.1

www.sailregina.ca

Welcome

Welcome to the first monthly summer newsletter. We are going to try to maintain monthly contact with the membership through this newsletter. The newsletter is a forum for club business, announcement of events, and anything else that might need to be communicated. It is also a place where members can post information relevant to other members, such as, for example, crew availability (if you are looking to crew, or want someone to crew for you), boats for sale or wanted classifieds, looking to share a ride to a regatta or to the club, etc. As the Regina Sailing Club has active young racing sailors, we want to bring information of their activities to the membership as well; hopefully, we will have some less junior members racing this summer too—in which case we will bring you full details there too. I don't have all that much to report at the moment—just want to get this off the ground—but I encourage all members to submit relevant items for the next newsletter, which will appear in early May. With spring finally here, it is time to dust off the old gear and get the boats ready (for me, it means getting the mast of my L2 out of the basement where it takes up much space—those things are long!).

Executive News

At the March AGM, a new executive was elected. Judi Horning has stepped up to take over as commodore. As anyone who has been around the club in the last few years will know, Judi has been very active with helping to develop the club property, administration, and race involvement. At time of printing, only the Social Director position remains unfilled: now who would not want to be in charge of social events? Step up and take the lead.

Racing News

At the moment, I have no news of our racing sailors, but hopefully by the next newsletter I will have something to report.

The May Regatta will take place between May 20 and 22. There will be a Laser regatta on Wascana Lake on the 20th, and then the regular May regatta on Last Mountain Lake.

We are planning some publicity events surrounding this regatta in order to get club exposure.

Club Property News

With the many changes to the property, there are some new things to keep in mind. There is a new compound, with a masthouse, right at water level. Boats can be kept in the new compound and gear in the masthouse, which will make launching nearly effortless.

Membership Fees

Information on the fee structure can be found here:
<http://www.sailregina.ca/membership.html>

Fees are due by the May Regatta, so please pay your fees as soon as possible.

Sailing School

The sailing school will be July 17-21 this year. Spread the word to prospective sailors.

Classifieds

To post your classified for the May newsletter, please e-mail me at sailwest@sailregina.ca. I would like to see some action in this category, especially in the crew, crewing, etc. category so that we can see some boats on the water as many days as possible.
